

Drink Koozie Pattern

Materials:

- This pattern uses very little yarn, I just used scraps of the Schachenmayr My Boston yarn that I had laying around
- Crochet hook – I used a size 10 hook (you should use whatever size matches your yarn gauge)

Instructions:

- Tie a slip knot in your yarn
- Chain 4
- Attach the 4th chain loop to the 1st chain loop with a single crochet
- Double crochet through the center loop
- Repeat double crochet loops until you make it all the way around to the first loop
- Chain 1
- Double crochet through top loops of the row you've just created
- Repeat double crochet loops until you make it all the way around to the first loop
- Chain 1
- Continue to double crochet and chain 1 at each new row until your circle is slightly larger than the circumference of a can
- Tie off your yarn when you've reached the correct size, cut yarn
- Attach a new color yarn to the outer edge of the circle you've just made
- Crochet upwards to make the sides of your koozie
- I like to single crochet so it's tighter around the can

- You're going to repeat the same steps from the circle, continue to single crochet in each top loop of the row you're working on until it's tall enough to reach just below the lip of the can
  - o Be sure to leave room to drink from the can!
- You can tie off and cut your yarn and reattach new colors to stripe the koozie if you'd like!
- I like to weave through a longer piece of yarn over and under 2 loops at the top as a drawstring to tighten the koozie around whatever can/bottle shape you're using it for
